Hua Hin
beyond

At present, the Monday daydreams of many an urbanite involves packing a picnic basket, heading to a condo, and spending a whole weekend unplugging and de-stressing, doing nothing aside from catching up on sleep and eating, where gossiping with friends and the occasional walk on the beach would be the most strenuous activity.

From Bangkok's earliest days as a budding concrete jungle, Hua Hin and its surrounding area has served as a welcome seaside retreat for Bangkok's denizens.

It is just far enough away from the city to maintain a sleepy ambience, but not too arduous a journey. In this regard, Hua Hin is a perfect entry in our continuing series of 72 Hours Amazing Thailand destinations.

Nowadays, a luxuriant crop of excellent lodging has sprouted up to accommodate the holidaymaking set. There is much more to see and do in the area, as local culture can be discovered, sporting activities for the adventurous, and celebrated restaurants to sate appetites and delight the palate. We have enjoyed compiling this guide to Hua Hin and beyond, discovering in the process the multitude of attractive options for every liking, though it is nice to see that these destinations remain a perfect setting to do absolutely nothing.

Three Easy Steps on How to Use the 72 Hours Amazing Hua Hin & Beyond Guidebook

1 Choose what you want to do, whether it is sunbathing on pristine beaches, dining at seaside eateries, or relaxing beside resort pools, the choice is yours.

2 Mix and match or follow one of the recommended map routes.

Visiting Routes

Visiting Route

Hua Hin Sunflower Field at Huay Mongkol Temple

For a different take on Hua Hin, the saffron-blanketed pasture of Thub Tai district of Hua Hin makes a great visit for nature lovers. The sunflowers here are known for their larger blossoms compared to other sunflowers fields found around the country. This canary-tinted space spreads over 300 rai and is an attraction of a local temple, Wat Huay Mongkol, home of the sacred Luang Pu Thuad statue revered by locals. With such a big area to explore in the sunflower field, visitors may want to opt for an elephant tour of the area for a better vantage point of this beautifully landscaped scene. Good news, the sunflowers here are year-long blooms, so you can stop by during the winter months when the climate is cooler.

Visiting Route Khao Takiab

This small village, known as one of the highest points in the area, boasts a compilation of temples, local eateries, elephant camps, and luxury hotels. The beach here is well suited for games as it is wider and flatter than the main beach of Hua Hin. Khao Takiab also has numerous marinas, which offer boats trips to nearby Koh Singto, and other surrounding destinations. Sport enthusiasts should check out the local Kung Fu camp, Wing Tsun, which offers natural fitness and training for all ages and level of expertise. Water sports are also abundant in this area, with a selection of jet skiing, banana boats, parasailing and other engaging activities available.

Hua Hin Plearn Wan

Plearn Wan is the place to be if you want to experience the old golden days of Hua Hin. This new community mall with a unique concept brings back some of the most treasured memories of this resort to the modern day in a form of a lifestyle complex. At Plearn Wan, you will be transported back to the past through its stores, restaurants and cafes that offer retro favorites from food and ice creams to toys and vintage fashion. The highlight is the "nang klang plaeng" or an open-air cinema on its luscious green lawn where old movies are shown like in the old days. Hua Hin is known to be a retro-loving resort town but Plearn Wan has just taken the experience to a whole other level.

Hua Hin Khao Hin Lek Fai Viewpoint

In a place like Hua Hin where there are many spots where one can enjoy nature, it might be hard to pinpoint just one favorite. But what makes Khao Hin Lek Fai different from others is the blend of local lifestyle and natural beauty. At the break of dawn, not only does it make a great place to watch the sunrise, it is also a place to observe the local Hua Hin morning routine thanks to its bustling market at the foot of the mountain. Trekking up to the peak can be tiring, but on the way adventurers can commune with local wildlife. Once there, they are eventually rewarded with a breathtaking 360-degree view over all of Hua Hin.

Cha-am Mrigadayavan Palace

For an authentic glimpse into Cha-am's old glory as an elite summer destination, there is no better place to go back in time than at Mrigadayavan Palace. Constructed in 1924 as a summer home for King Rama VI (King Vajiravudh), the location of the palace was ideal for a relaxing getaway owing to the adjacent white sandy beach. The palace is also well-known for its unique Thai-Victorian architecture—an open elevated plan that can withstand strong ocean winds and shelter from scorching summer heat—impressively designed by His Majesty King Rama VI himself. There are a total of 16 golden teakwood pavilions within the compound, 11 of which are interconnected by airy elevated walkways which make navigating the palace a breezy experience. Mrigadayavan Palace was used as a royal resident twice, until the death of King Rama VI in 1925. The palace was then used for royal and military functions before being restored and opened to the public. It is now considered one of the true must-see spots in Cha-am and Thailand.

Cha-am Baan Puen Palace

Baan Puen Palace is another famous royal palace in the province of Petchaburi with a staggeringly beautiful architecture, built during the reign of His Majesty the King Rama V. This white colonial-style residence was designed by a German architect to answer royal requests for a holiday palace built in a European style. Modeled after a summer palace of Kaiser Wilhelm, a German king, the palace sits near the east side of Petchaburi river, enabling it to take in the cool river breeze. The palace got its moniker from a big steel cast cannon standing tall at the front of the palace. Even though it does not actually house any historical artifacts from that time, its airy halls and spiral staircases are tempting enough for any art and design lovers who are visiting the province.

Cha-am

Phra Nakhon Khiri Historical Park

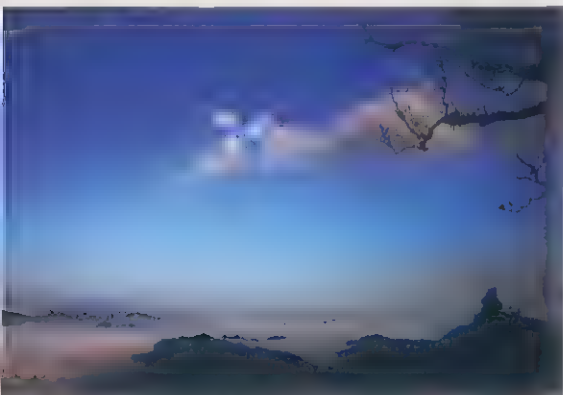

The group of three mountains in Petchaburi received its nickname, Palace Mountain, when King Rama IV decided to make the invitingly luscious green terrain the site of his holiday residence. The mount is considered the symbol of Petchaburi and it is clearly visible from the city, as its grand white chedi atop the mountain makes it hard not to make curious travelers notice its charm. The mountain is also home to many ancient buildings, most of them designed in Chinese neo-classic architecture, including a "mini" Wat Prakaew and the Phra Nakhon Khiri National Museum which houses historical artifacts, chinaware and artwork dating from King Rama IV to King Rama VI. Though the mountain is easily accessible by personal car, there is also a cable car service available.

Cha-am

Kaeng Krachan National Park

Kaeng Krachan is the biggest national park in Thailand and is considered as one of the most picturesque thanks to its combination of beautiful mountains, creeks, dams and forests, and the result is this ecological phenomenon. The national park is a favorite among campers and outback enthusiasts as the park's cool atmosphere makes a great place to spend the night among natural beauty. For those just visiting, there are many key points in this park worth a visit, such as the lake with small islands scattered about where visitors can visit by boat, or the breathtaking Pha Noen Thoong peak for a 360 degree view of the quiet greenery down below.

Pranburi

Ao Manao Royal Thai Air Force Base Wing 5

Wing 5 sits on land surrounded by two bays, Ao Prachuap and Ao Manao, and has a clear view of Khao Lom Muak. Aside from being the official Air Force base of the province, the site itself is also rich in history dating back to 1941 during World War II when Japan attacked the base and took the lives of many residents of Ao Manao. In December 1941, only hours after the attack on Pearl Harbor, Japanese troops started invading provinces in Thailand, including Prachuap Khiri Khan, by sea in order to get to the British Allies who were at the time occupying Burma. A battle broke out between Japanese soldiers and Thai Wing 5 forces in the early hours and lasted for over 30 hours before Prime Minister Field Marshall Pibulasonggram ordered Thai forces to surrender to avoid more casualties. The 39 men, a youth volunteer and two female residents who lost their lives are forever honored on a memorial statue set up just offshore of Ao Prachuap. There is also an interactive museum dedicated to the event, depicting stories of that fateful night.

Pranburi Ao Pran

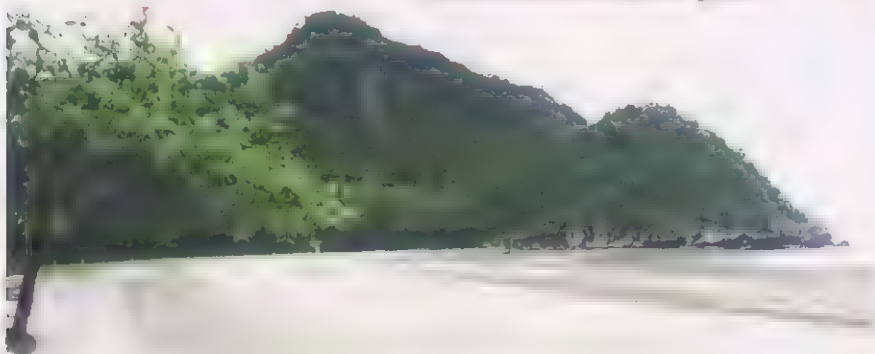

The shoreline of Pranburi stretches from the Pran River all the way to Khao Kalok. Pranburi beach is known to be the quiet alternative to the lively Hua Hin and Cha-am, and thanks to its serene scene and peaceful atmosphere, Pranburi beach is now increasingly gaining attention from those tired of the commotion. The easiest way to explore what Pranburi beach has to offer is by traveling along the adjacent beach road, which will lead travelers to various beachside restaurants, resorts as well as a number of water sport activities for those looking for a little bit of thrill in this rather chill-out area.

Sam Roi Yod Had Sam Phro Ya

Pristine white sand and accommodating facilities for visitors have helped make this beach one of the best for sheer relaxation. Situated five kilometers from Khao Sam Roi Yod, this destination is ideal for chilling out after a long day of trekking in the park. Picnic areas, a small restaurant, and washrooms are available for guests.

Khuha Karuhas Pavilion in the Phraya Nakhon Cave

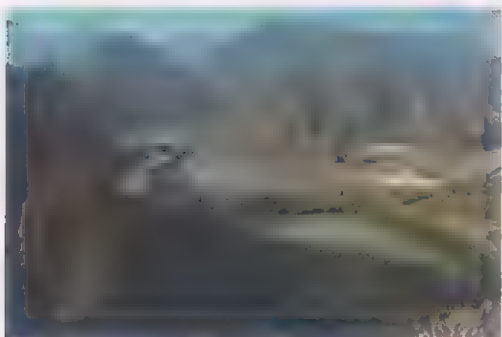

Situated within the amazing Phraya Nakhon Cave is the Khuha Karuhas Pavillion. The pavilion, which was built in 1896 to commemorate a visit by King Rama V, is positioned in a large plant covered cave chamber. In 1926, King Rama VII visited the pavilion inscribing his name alongside the previous ruler. The present day King of Thailand, HM King Rama IX, has also twice visited the cave adding to the royal lore of this fantastic destination. The cave and pavilion can be reached by a steep trail, which takes about 30 minutes to trek. Visitors to the cave should take along proper equipment, including appropriate footwear and attire.

Sai and Kaew Cave Hin Ngok Hin Yoi

These remarkable natural features are abundant in the Sai and Kaew Caves. Hin Ngok or stalagmites are cone shaped calcite deposits that rise from the floor of caves, while Hin Yoi or stalactites grow from the roofs like an icicle. The Sai Cave is situated high on a mountain near the village of Kung Tanode. The cave takes about 30 minutes to reach from the foot of the mountain, and proper hiking gear is recommended as well as lamps that are available for rent. The Kaew Cave is nestled in the Chan Valley and features similar natural features, yet with a strikingly unique twist.

Khao Sam Roi Yod National Park

The first national coastal park in Thailand, and the largest marine park, Khao Sam Roi Yod is a magnificent natural attraction of scenic beauty. Abundant wildlife, including monkeys, mudskippers, and the occasional wild goat, roam amongst the thousands of acres of mountainous parkland. Living up to its name of 'Mountains with 300 peaks' mammoth towers of granite rise from the riverbed and the jungle below, promoting an otherworldly ambience that any aficionado of natural areas will appreciate. Weaving in and out of the peaks is a vast network of freshwater marshes teeming with native fauna. Famed visitors to the park, especially the Phraya Nakhon cave, include HM King Chulalongkorn in 1890 for which the Kuha Karuhas pavilion was erected inside the cave, HM King Vajiravudh as well as the current King HM Bhumibol Adulyadej.

Khao Daeng Viewpoint

Khao Daeng Viewpoint is considered one of the must-visit spots in the province of Prachuap Khiri Khan. A part of the grand Sam Roi Yod Mountain, this peak makes a very romantic start of a journey through this quiet mountainous town as it lets visitors take in the whole 360 degree view of the town. Khao Daeng can be easily reached from Khao Daeng village, about 500 meters from the park's main meeting point. The village is also worth a visit as visitors can get a glimpse into the local life. An ideal visiting hour should be early in the morning just when the sun is rising.

Prachuap Khao Chong Krajok

It is inadvisable ■ visit Prachuap Khiri Khan without at least once taking a trek up the beautiful Khao Chong Krajok, ■ gargantuan mountain located just ■ few minutes from Ao Manao and Ao Prachuap. Khao Chong Krajok is a big sandy mountain lusciously covered with shady trees and shrubs, home ■ over 4,000 curious monkeys. At the top of this sunny summit sits the secluded Wat Khao Chong Krajok, where devotees scale the 396 steps ■ pay respect to ■ Buddha relic residing there. This mountain got its name from its unique tunnel resembling a mirror frame cut through the north side of the mountain, making it one of the most photographed attractions in the province. Visitors ■ the mountain are advised to be extremely cautious, as its untamed furry inhabitants are prone to snatching anything they can, from purses to cameras. Make sure to have ■ knowledgeable guides alongside; not only can they help fend off the naughty monkeys, but you will be treated with insightful stories about the mountain.

Prachuap Singkhon Border

Dan Singkhon lies along the border between Thailand and Burma and is situated in the Muang district of Prachuap Khiri Khan province. What makes this border especially important is its location, which is considered the narrowest point of Thailand, spanning ■ mere 12 kilometers. Aside from this fascinating fact, Dan Singkhon makes ■ great stop to find unique Burmese souvenirs without having to cross the border. The Singkhon market itself is non-descript; however, tourists and locals flock ■ this simple merchant area for its vast selection of wild orchids coming in a riot of sizes, shapes, and colors. Here, shoppers can also get a quick peek into Burmese commerce with the smiling merchants setting up shops in the market selling an array of local beauty products, handicrafts, and jewelry. Visitors will need their passports to cross the border, however, during festivities such as Songkran, where one can easily walk into the neighboring country, where locals perform traditional dances for curious tourists.

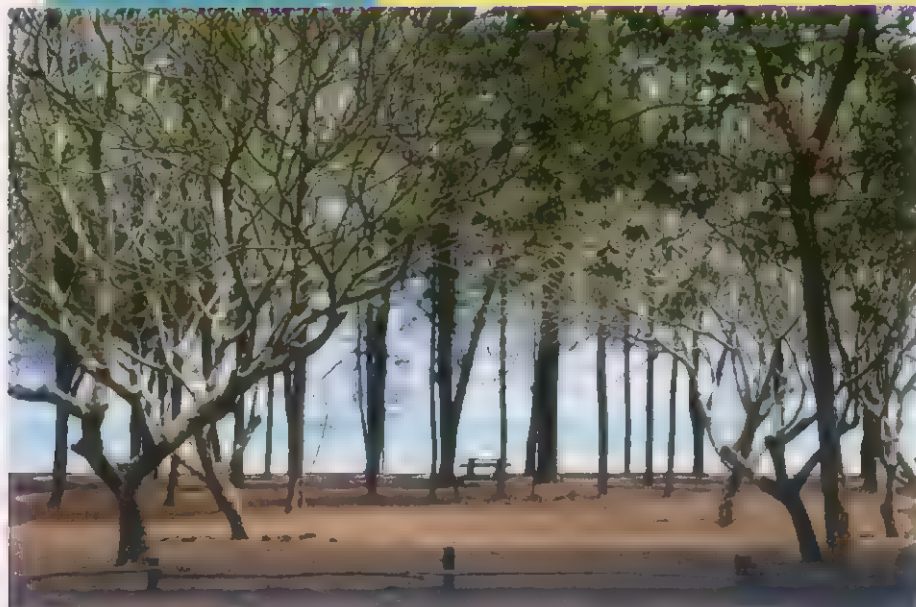

Koh Talu

Koh Singha and Koh Sung

One thing that put Bang Saphan Noi District in Prachuap Khiri Khan province on a traveler's map is the famous divers' paradise named Koh Talu. Koh Talu is located just off the coast, a part of a group of islands which include the two smaller islands Koh Sung and Koh Singha. The waters around this cluster of islands is so clear that on a calm, sunny day, the coral reefs and marine life below can be easily seen from the surface. These islands are famous among avid divers and snorkeling enthusiasts for its perfectly preserved underwater scenery, making it one of the best dive spots in the Gulf of Thailand. While the smaller islands of Koh Sung and Koh Singha are diver's favorites, the palm-shaded Koh Talu offers great fun away from the busy mainland with its array of activities including kayaking, sailing and beach volleyball. Baan Maprao, the only resort on the island, offers speedboat rentals as well as equipment rental for diving and kayaking excursions.

Thub Sakae Wanakorn Beach

Large stretches of pristine beachfront are garnered with tall trees at this beautiful and secluded national park. The beaches are long and wide with a minimal amount of patrons, making this destination ideal for a tranquil retreat from some of the more crowded areas. The park also includes a restaurant with delicious seafood and Thai cuisine, camping areas, and modern restroom and shower facilities. Bring along your bike and explore the beautiful nature trails, or take Fido along, as pets are welcomed.

Thub Sakae Huai Yang National Park

Take in the scenic ambience at this fertile national park that features enormous granite boulders and a beautiful undulating waterfall in the rainy season. The location is tranquil and ideal for a family picnic or a day of exploration in the jungle. The park is filled with natural features that capture the essence of Southern Thailand and its unique topography. The best time to visit is in October and November when the waterfall is at full force. Entry fee is 100 THB and additional charges may apply for camping and large vehicles.

Baan Grood Beach

Baan Grood Beach, the most famous beach in Bang Saphan district, is steadily gaining attention as one of the most sought-after holiday locations in Prachuap Khiri Khan. This 12-kilometer long stretch of pine tree-lined beach is not only known for its white sandy shores where locals and knowledgeable tourists go for a quick swim, but is also ■ favorite for foodies to try local seafood dishes. With ■ vast and fairly undisturbed beach, it is an ideal spot for ■ picnic or ■ sunbathing session without the usual seaside nuisances of hawkers and motorized water sports.

Khao Thong Chai

Enjoy scenic vistas of the surrounding shoreline at this breathtaking mountain overlook. Situated between Had Sai Kaew and Had Baan Grood, Khao Thong Chai boasts uninhibited views of the crescent-shaped coastline, regarded by locals as a symbol of the Prachuap Khiri Khan Province. Here you can also observe three holy spots, including the prominent Phramaha Chedi Kao Yod or nine-spire pagoda, which was constructed to commemorate the Golden Jubilee of His Majesty the King.

Activities

Beach Horse Riding

Visiting Hua Hin beach without galloping around on the back of a horse is almost impossible. Horse-riding along the beach is one of the most famous must-do activities in this sophisticated resort town. While other beaches offer more adrenaline-pumping ways of getting around like on an ATV, Hua Hin beach keeps its serene scene with the more graceful option. Just like how bikes are available at almost every shophouse on Cha-am beach, there are numerous horse-riding services on offer by local residents on this sandy strip. But for those new to the activity, the service by Sofitel Central Hua Hin Hotel is popular among first-timer tourists.

Activities

Hua Hin Safari and

Phetkasem Rd.

Hua Hin Safari is where nature and animal lovers can come together and be a part of a selection of fun adventurous activities. This adventure park truly lives up to its name thanks to its array of exciting ventures such as elephant trekking, horseback riding, or speeding around the rough terrain on a monstrous ATV. The park itself is beautifully landscaped, perfect for a trip on the back of a trusty elephant where visitors will be able to get the best view of Hua Hin's picturesque mountainous backdrop. Not feeling the adrenalin rush? Take a seat on one of their wooden benches for the best entertainment in town where cleverly lovely pachyderms take the stage entertaining curious audiences with dance numbers and stunt shows. For those who have a problem getting there, call and the helpful staff will take you to the park for free.

Hua Hin Hills Wineyard

Wine and Hua Hin, who said they do not belong together? Not Siam Winery, who years ago set up the first vineyard amid the green hills of this resort town. Though it takes quite a determination for one to get to the winery, once there vino lovers will be greeted with not only the true charming hospitality of the Hua Hin Hills staff, but also with the picturesque scenery of the uneven slopes that encase this secret sanctuary within its mountainous walls. Within Hua Hin Hills also sits The Sala, the vineyard's fine dining spot that serves up Thai fusion dishes designed specifically to match their selections of wine. A visit to a vineyard would not be complete without a first-hand experience of the harvest, which starts from February to March, when Siam Winery's specialist vintners pick the best of Shiraz, Colombard and Muscat. Want to see more of the vineyard, from the top of the hills or down in the creeks? Trusty elephants are available to take guests on a scenic tour. For those having problems getting to the vineyard, a free shuttle service is available at Hua Hin Hills Wine Cellar at Market Village in the center of Hua Hin town.

For the ultimate beachside activities in Prachuap Khiri Khan province, look no further than at Had Takiab or Takiab Beach. This vast stretch of sandy beach is soon becoming a popular relaxing spot for those looking to have some fun while staying at this rather quiet side of Hua Hin town. Khao Takiab is a beach facing the Ao Thai Bay looking out to the Singtho Island visible from the shore. Aside from a large number of resorts and seaside restaurants that are lining the beach, Khao Takiab is also generous in terms of fun activities from a relaxing horse-riding session along the beach to more adventurous options of jet-skiing and banana boat rides. Snorkelers don't fret, speedboats are also available to take swimmers and divers to the nearby Singtho Island for its gorgeous under-the-sea scenery.

HOME OF ART & CRAFT

บ้านวาดเขียน

Featuring magnificent works from local artists, Baan Sillapin is an intriguing gallery full of masterpieces. Hua Hin has long been a hotbed for artists and the creations at Baan Sillapin reflect that distinctive attribute. Ranging from stunning works of realism to inspiring modern pieces, this unique gallery also houses a large collection of amazing antiques. Traditional Japanese prints, classical Thai sculptures and a cornucopia of items from around the world can be found in the cozy antique area. But the true gem of Baan Sillapin is the main gallery that houses the works of talented artists from all over Thailand. The resident artist, an accomplished and well known painter in his own right, Tawee Kesa-Ngam, conceived Baan Sillapin as a burgeoning collective of creative energy, and the quote that greets visitors upon arrival demonstrates this fact: "Imagination is more important than knowledge." –Albert Einstein. Prachuap King Mongkut Memorial Park of Science and Technology at Waghor

King Mongkut (or Rama IV) is revered by Thais as their "Father of Science and Technology". To celebrate his legacy, the Ministry of Education founded a science park to honor his work at Waghor district in Prachuap Khiri Khan. Over the ensuing two decades, the center has become a monumental resource that continuously supports Thailand's education with a wide range of activities and well-equipped facilities. Here at the science park there are a total of five separate buildings, each focusing on different topics concerning science and nature studies. Waghor Aquarium is where visitors learn about marine ecology through both interactive media and live fish and marine creatures in state-of-the-art tanks and facilities. Astronomy enthusiasts can head to the nearby planetarium which showcases exhibitions on space technology, while nature lovers will find a treat in the tranquil butterfly park. Hua Hin Springfield Royal Country Club

Designed by golf legend Jack Nicklaus, the Springfield Royal Country Club boasts 27 beautifully designed holes with an endless array of challenging hazards. This course is truly a signature Jack Nicklaus masterpiece, complete with five sets of tees to play from, and three different course styles. Course A is the verdant mountain course, Course B is the lakeside course, and Course C is the tropical valley course. Additionally, the course founder Mr. Kasem Mongkolkosol, wanted the course to be in harmony with nature and the surrounding wildlife. Thus, Springfield Golf & Spa entered into a relationship with The Audubon Society's Cooperative Sanctuary Program for Golf Courses, which resulted in the course hosting to more than 100 species of birds. Tee times may be placed up to three months in advance, and it's a good idea to do so, as this course is becoming one of the most popular in Thailand.

Cha-am Palm Hills Golf Club & Residence

A unique combination of environmental sensitivity and spectacular shore side scenery makes this course one of the finest in Hua Hin. The course was designed to challenge amateur and pros alike, with undulating fairways, pristine greens, and breathtaking landscape. Encapsulated by spectacular mountains, tranquil lakes and sea vistas, Palm Hills boasts 18-holes of championship level play. Designed by the renowned Max Wexler to fuse nature with sport, the course offers strategically placed hazards and magnificent panoramas of the surrounding seascape. Additionally, the course features upscale amenities, such as a lavish clubhouse, fine dining venue, and a state-of-the-art sports club with pro-shop. A location just eight minutes from the city center and adjacent to the airport make it even more convenient for visitors.

Hua Hin Black Mountain Golf Club

Black Mountain quickly earned recognition and was declared the best new course in Asia after its opening in April of 2007. The two courses, the East Course which is 7,343 yards of challenges and the resort style 7,064 yard West Course, were both designed by the renowned Pacific Coast Design firm. The course concept aimed to create an authentic feel by using the natural terrain and beauty of the area to guide the flow of play. Natural creeks and large black rocks in addition to exotic trees frame each of the holes promoting challenges for the amateur and seasoned veteran alike. All of the holes feature a safe route as well as a higher risk route with the potential for greater reward. The fairways are long and wide, perfectly complementing the greens, which utilize hybrid bermuda grass. The clubhouse furthers the luxury feel of the golf club with panoramas of the entire course, a fine dining venue, and chic locker rooms.

Hua Hin Market Village

For those looking for the comforts of home while vacationing in an otherwise sleepy resort town, look no further than the Hua Hin Market Village. This lifestyle complex is Hua Hin's equivalent to J-Avenue in Bangkok where all of life's conveniences can be had in one single spot. A creatively miniaturized shopping center, the Market Village brings together some of Bangkok's best services such as Tesco Lotus, Major Cineplex and Major Bowl, HomePro as well as a variety of restaurants and cafes like Starbucks and Siam Winery's wine cellar to satisfy the urban palate. There are also bookstores and electronics shops that bring modern conveniences to this seaside city.

Another famous shopping complex in Hua Hin, Sailom Pavilion retains traditional Thai charms within its wrought-wood pavilion design, making it a perfect fit to Hua Hin's old town settings. It's a great place to shop for local handicrafts, intricate gifts, home decor, and other delicate works by local artists. Sailom Pavilion is also where some Western eateries can be found, including favorites like Great American Rib and Subway Sandwiches. It is also great for just relaxing, as a mini garden out front makes for a cozy afternoon chill-out spot.

Shopping Khomapastr Fabrics and Home Textiles

Looking to take home a piece of Hua Hin? There is nothing more authentic than a gift from Khomapastr. The 50-year-old brand has earned recognition beyond the borders of this resort town with intricate fabrics blending the art of traditional silk-screening with modern-style stitches and colors. What makes Khomapastr fabrics-cotton and silk stand out from others is their traditional designs that tell stories through Thai arts, from literary characters to Thai creatures and plants. There are also other fabric-based products worth checking out, such as pillow cases, scarves, cloth dolls and many others.

Shopping Night Market

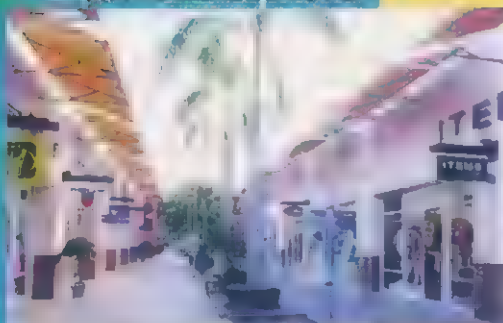

To truly experience the local culture and lifestyle of any town in Thailand, one must pay a visit to the local market. Hua Hin is no different, though there are many markets scattered about in this seaside town, the Night Market is undoubtedly the most famous and most crowded shopping street in Hua Hin. Stretched across two big roads, the market is a span of shophouses, canopied-stalls and food vendors offering everything and anything to curious tourists looking for a bit of enjoyment after the sun has set. The Night Market is also the best place to sample Hua Hin's local delicacies as well as a place to shop for unique gifts and souvenirs. The best advice is to come hungry and eat and shop your way around for the best deals in food and fashion.

While the vendors at Hua Hin Night Market pack things up when the clock strikes midnight, the nearby Chatchai Market is still bustling with sleepless night owls who can still enjoy the charming Hua Hin shopping spirits until the morning comes. Dubbed "toh roong" or "until the break of dawn" by the locals, the market sits under beautifully arched roofs with the design commissioned by Prince Burachat Chaiyakorn, a son of King Rama V, as a gift to honor the legacy of His Majesty the King Rama VII in 1926. Unlike the nighttime counterpart, the all-day all-night Chatchai Market attracts flocks of visitors with its wide range of local snacks, desserts and fresh catch from the sea, making it a haven for foodies.

The great thing about shopping for branded goods outside Bangkok ■ the outlets and the one complex in Cha-am is considered one of the biggest venues in the country. The Premium Outlet is a cluster of small stores set in a faux Mediterranean village environment, complete with bricked buildings, palm trees and alley ways making the navigation a breeze. The brands here range from low to mid-level fashion and sports brands, mostly found in Bangkok's top department stores but with much cheaper price tags. Though most of the goods here have been long off season, the price is unbeatable with at least 30% off its original retail value. At Premium Outlet, hungry shoppers can also stop to take a bite between shopping sessions at various restaurant and cafes, offering snacks like waffles and hotdogs to full on seafood dishes.

Wellness & Spa

Thai healing has its roots in both local wisdom and the ayurvedic practices brought from India by merchants and Buddhist monks. Traditional Thai massage, based on pressure along the body's meridians and yoga postures, was developed to soothe aching muscles after arduous work in the fields. Now, with the introduction and combination of other disciplines, like aromatherapies, Hua Hin has become a sanctuary for rejuvenation.

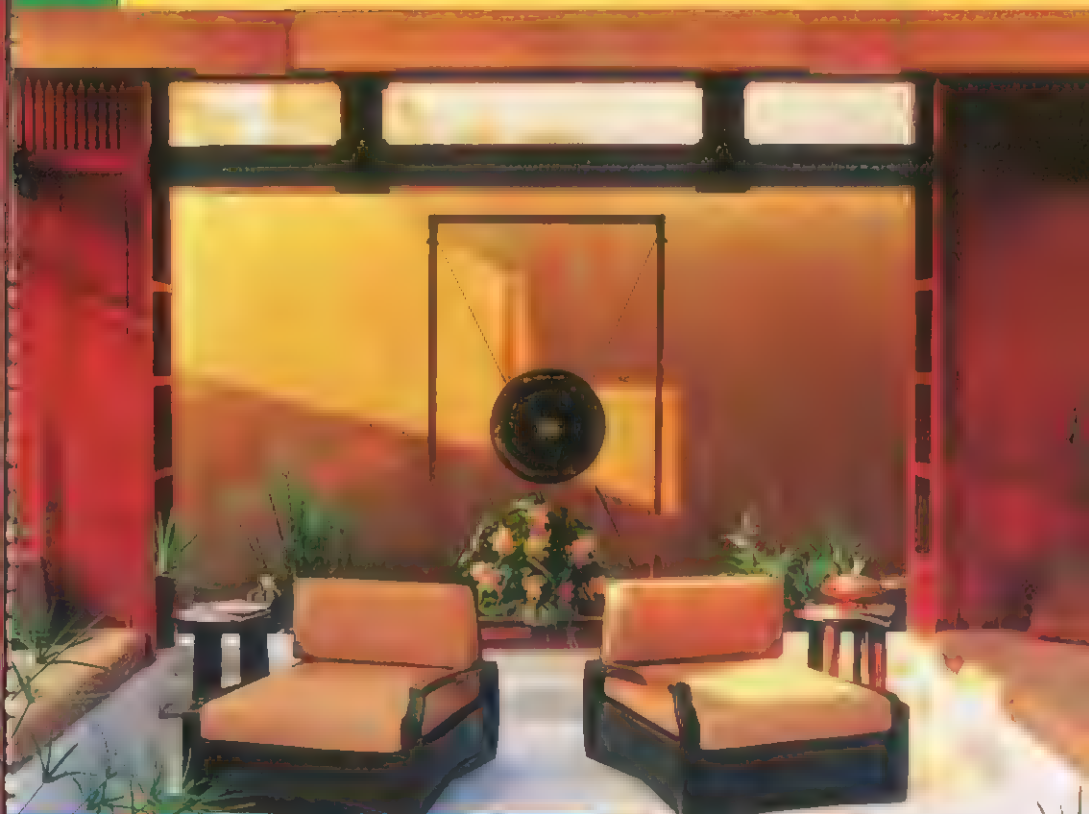

AKA RESORTS GUTHI

Nestled amidst nature with private lagoon sala pavilions, AKA Spa offers a collection of signature treatments, based on a holistic and natural approach. Drawing on Asian traditions and using internationally acclaimed spa brand Pevonia, each AKA treatment begins with a spa consultation and Thai Tea ceremony in a serene and tranquil setting leading to spiritual well being.

Dining & Entertainment

Hua Hin offers visitors aficionados a virtual smorgasbord of delightfully tasty cuisine: the pinnacle of gastronomy in this once sleepy fishing village is, of course, the ultra-fresh seafood, ranging from enormous succulent crab. However, Hua Hin dishes up more than just the pearls of the briny blue. Due to the large expatriate population, a cornucopia of cuisine can be experienced, including authentic Italian, French, and Scandinavian. All of this is in addition to arguably the most palate-pleasing food in the world: Thai. Top it off with world-class entertainment, uninhibited fun, and a tropical ambience, and you've got an unforgettable seventy-two hours in paradise.

The Sea Restaurant serves a variety of authentic Thai and European cuisine including a vast selection of locally harvested fresh seafood dishes. The ambience is chic and a talented internationally trained cook carefully prepares the food with a meticulous attention to detail.

Dining Room

Looking for modern Italian cuisine served up in the ambience of an open air Tiki hut next to the sea? Look no further than Ciao, the Marriott's premier dining venue, where delicious compilations of traditional favorites are served along with a hefty dose of class. The restaurant itself features large beams with a thatched roof and a delightfully pleasant atmosphere accompanied by an orchestra of gently breaking surf. Imported cheeses, meats, and fresh local ingredients come together as one to create a blissfully filling dining experience. Seafood lovers will adore the set menu options, which include grilled snow fish, fresh lobster with asparagus pesto risotto, and succulent sea scallops. Book ahead to ensure a table at one of Hua Hin's premier dining venues.

Recommended Menu:

- Authentic Italian Bruschetta
- Parmesan Crusted Chicken
- Goat Cheese Ravioli

Dining Let's Sea Beach Restaurant

Let's Sea Alfresco Resort is considered one of the best in design hotels in Hua Hin, and that applies to its equally spectacular restaurant by the beach. This urban seaside kitchen serves the stylish beach crowd with delectable seafood menus and a mixture of flavors from tangy Thai tints to rich Western savories in their creatively decorated dishes. This beach restaurant draws in the crowd who come here not only for its original menus but also for its unique vibe that blends designs with gastronomic delight. When night falls, the party doesn't have to end. Stay on at Sand Lounge and Breeze Bar for their array of cocktails.

Recommended Menu:

- Minced pork on baguettes
- Let's Sea style steamed mussels

Dining Khrua Jaew Seafood

When it comes to Hua Hin's sister town, Pranburi, though it might not attract as much travelers, it does however welcome heaps of foodies who are in search for flavorful seafood dishes at reasonable prices. One of the must try places in Pranburi has to be the 12-year-old Krua Jaew, whose cheerful owners themselves still whip up signature dishes for their loyal and first-time customers. Though the place itself is nondescript, the fame of their food however has gained recognition over the years. With an open-style restaurant, diners are greeted with natural sea breezes from the beach across the street, which can definitely help cool down the restaurant's tangy seafood flavors.

Recommended Menu:

- Thai sour fish curry with fresh chilies
- Fried sundried sea mackerel
- Fishermen's fish cakes

Style: Thai seafood

Suggested time: Lunch, 12 PM

Dining OX Seafood

When visiting Hua Hin's quiet sister Pranburi, it would be blasphemous not sample the town's best known seafood joint, OX Seafood. The restaurant itself is nondescript, just a wooden house sitting beside a long stretch of Pranburi beach. What makes this place so special is its spot-on fresh seafood dishes that perfectly deliver flavors that are both mouthwatering to the Thais and friendly to the foreigners' palate.

Recommended Menu:

- Grilled seafood platter
- Fried sea bass in fish sauce
- Steamed Sea Crabs

Style: Thai Seafood

SEVENTYTWO

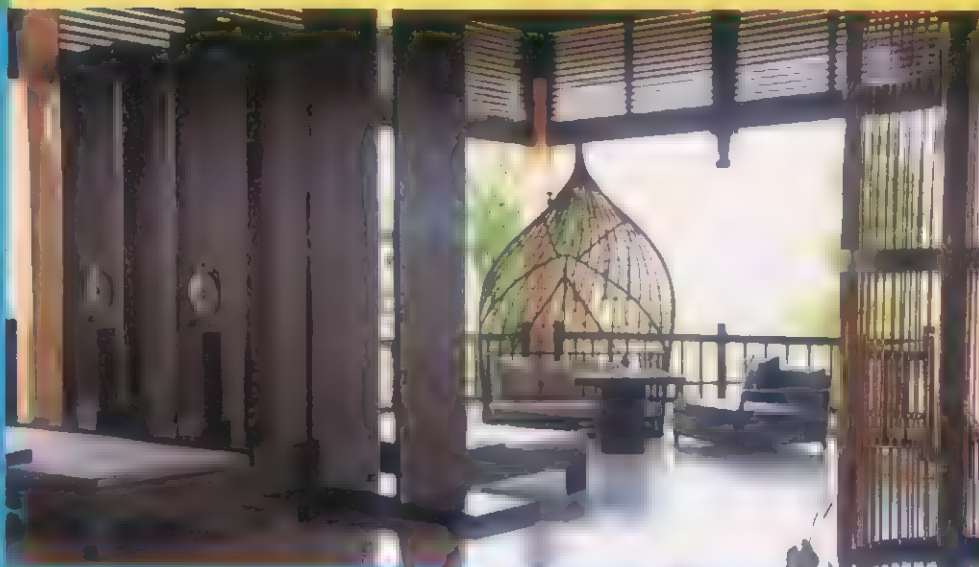

This sweetly colored boutique hotel may not be facing any particular beach but it does give visitors a taste of true Hua Hin charm through its chic decor and creative architectural designs. As it is located just off the main Petchakasem Road, the hotel gives vacationers easy access to Hua Hin's array of dining and entertainment options, and within the perimeter of the endearing Lapa, lies Sangria Bar, a spa, three different restaurants and a large pool filled with ozonated saline water. Guests can opt for regular deluxe and superior rooms, however for the best of the Lapa experience, the Lapa Cool options are spectacular. It offers two superior rooms just a few meters away from the pool with a private mock sandy beach, while Lapa Terrace Suite pool villas offer direct access to the pool right from the cozy front patio. Families might prefer the Lapa Duplex Suite with two bedrooms, a living room and a pantry. Long stay guests are welcome.

Map Routes

Follow these routes and explore Hua Hin and beyond with a trusty tour guide at your side. From beautiful beaches to lively entertainment venues, these routes will help you to fully experience Hua Hin and beyond. Easily find accommodation, dining venues, recreational activities and other interesting attractions.

DAY 1:

Morning

Cruising on the Siam Pearl

Meander through the Sam Roi Yod Islands on a comfortable ship, and enjoy a multitude of interesting sites, from frolicking dolphins to mischievous monkeys. Stop by secluded beaches, realign your inner Chi and prepare for a day filled with wonder. The natural landscape is one that must not be missed.

Lunch

Dining on the Siam Pearl

Lunch on the Siam Pearl Cruise also makes a unique phenomenon. Sample Thai cuisines and seafood selection right on this trusty wooden voyage. You can't beat this spectacular dining experience.

Evening

Relaxing @ Foresta Resort

Foresta Resort by the beach makes one of the most relaxing stays in Pranburi. Take a stroll in their chic gardens or you can simply relax by the poolside. Hungry? Dinner is served at the resort's beachside cafe, Coffee Beach Bar, which offers a wide selection of Thai and seafood dishes as well as colorful cocktails to end the amazing day.

DAY 2:

Morning

Welcoming the Pranburi Sea Breeze

Pranburi beach is considered one of the most relaxing spots in the area. With pristine white sand shoreline stretching for kilometers, it's not hard to find a quiet and peaceful spot to lounge away with a book or embark on your sun-tanning mission.

Lunch

Krua Jaew Seafood

One of the must try places in Pranburi has to be the 12-year-old Krua Jaew, whose cheerful owners still whip up their signature dishes themselves for their loyal and first-time customers. Though the place is nondescript, the fame of their food has gained so much recognition over the years that it no longer needs introduction.

Afternoon-Evening

Activities at Sam Roi Yod

The name says it all; the "Mount of Three Hundred Peaks" is a great spot for viewing Prachuap's picturesque scenery. It is wise to leave half a day for exploring Sam Roi Yod as within the perimeter of this national park by the sea there are secluded beaches, undisturbed caves, greenish hills and many scenic viewpoints scattered about. Looking for more relaxing activities, take a boat tour of Khao Daeng canal where one can get a glimpse of the undisturbed Pranburi mangroves and wildlife.

DAY 3:

Morning

KA Spa @ Aleenta

Take a trip a few meters down the beach for an ultimate morning relaxation. Get some of the best Asian spa treatments offered by the skillful staff. Independent souls can also join in one of their yoga sessions by the beach.

Lunch

Dining @ Aleenta

Lunch is served at the resort's beachside restaurant. Diners can choose from a selection of Thai and seafood a la carte menu or go all the way with their special degustation sets that come complete with matching glass of vino.

INITIATION
Bang Saphan

DAY 1:

Morning

Baan Grood Beach

The quiet beach at Baan Grood may not seem like much to those accustomed to the busy Hua Hin shorelines, but for those looking for peace and quiet, this is the place to be. Along the Baan Grood beach also lie a number of grub shacks, from seafood skewers to light meals so foodies will never be disappointed here.

Afternoon

A Trip to Khao Thong Chai

Khao Thong Chai is the monumental landmark in the area of Baan Grood. The temple can be seen atop the mountain from anywhere in the district. Take a trip up this "Symbol of Prachuap Khiri Khan" and pay respect to the beautiful Phramaha Chedi Kao Yod pagoda, a gift from Prachuap Khiri Khan people to honor the Golden Jubilee of His Majesty the King.

Evening

Relaxing @ Baan Grood Arcadia

After a long day of adventure, Baan Grood Arcadia makes a perfect last stop for your Bang Saphan tour. Take a dip in their vast pool or get yourself to the real beach just across the road for a refreshing swim. Thai and international dinner are served at the resort's beachfront restaurant Cafe De Wa.

DAY 2:

Morning

Koh Talu Island

Take a speedboat to this cluster of islands just off Bang Saphan shore and you will find yourself in ■ true paradise. Since the islands are privately owned, peaceful enjoyment of the islands ■ guaranteed. The main island, Koh Talu, is known for its clear blue waters where lively marine life awaits for snorkelers to visit.

Lunch

Dining at Koh Talu Island Resort

Visit the lone resort on the island for some authentic fisherman treats. The resort may not be as elaborate as ones found on the mainland but their selections of Thai and seafood menu are equally delectable.

Afternoon

Koh Sung and Koh Singha

Explore the rest of the clusters at Koh Sung and Koh Singha. Avid divers will find themselves at home here, as under the surface lives ■ preserved marine life and coral reefs. For swimmers, a snorkeling session is more than enough to get a glimpse into this pristine blue world.

DAY 3:

Morning

Last Dip in Koh Talu sea

Take ■ morning moment to say goodbye to the clear waters of Koh Talu. Have a little morning picnic on the beach or take the trusty goggles down for the last look at the magnificent underwater life before heading back to the mainland.

Lunch

Dining @ OX Restaurant

Before heading back to the busy Hua Hin, drop by for lunch at the breezy OX restaurant for some fresh seafood with a great view of the peaceful Pranburi beach. Après meal, refresh yourself with ■ cup of traditional Thai coffee from the nearby coffee shack to ready yourself for a long trip.

Fun Wild Boar Safari

DAY 1:

Morning

Gold Village Tour

Step back into what seems like the Wild West, Thai style of course, at this fascinating gold village where skilled prospectors sift through the earth to find gold nuggets. And while you're there, get in on the action and try your luck at finding that elusive precious mineral.

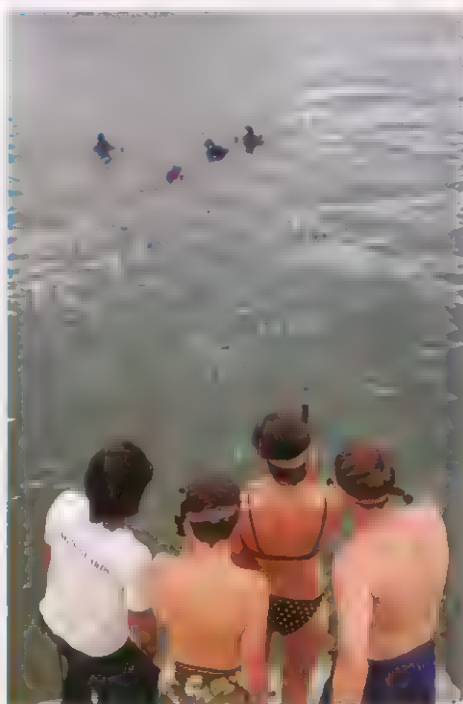

DAY 2:

Morning

Wanakorn National Park and Beach

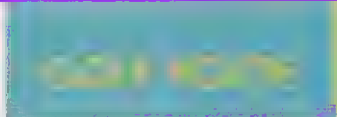

This spacious beach is well known for its vast sandy plains that stretch over seven kilometers. The area is also rich in vegetation, making it one of the most preserved beaches in the province. Nature lovers will find themselves lost in its pine surroundings while snorkelers can head to the nearby Chan and Thaisri islands for a glimpse into the rich marine life.

DAY 3:
Morning
Hua Hin Water Sports

Thrill seekers in Khao Takiab can take one of the jetskis out for a spin around the beach for an exciting afternoon. If you're looking for something fun to enjoy with ■ group of friends, banana boats and "donut" buoy rides are also available. All activities are supervised by a group of trained pros making this ■ safe fun alternative to enjoy the exciting side of Hua Hin.

DAY 1:

Morning

Golf at Banyan Golf Course

Beautiful green fairways and magnificent landscape makes the Banyan Golf Course the perfect place to shoot for par. Have a quick bite to eat at the Mulligan's Restaurant once you have finished a round of nine, and fuel up for the back stretch. This world-class venue also features a large pro-shop and recreational facility.

Evening

Spa at The Barai

Unwind from a day out on the links at one of Asia's most remarkable spa experiences. Indulge on a vast selection of rejuvenating muscle therapies, sport massages, and beauty treatments in an otherworldly atmosphere that has garnered international recognition for excellence.

DAY 2:

Morning

Golf at Black Mountain Golf Course

Black Mountain is a new favorite among Hua Hin golfers. With two designer courses, The East and The West, enthusiasts will find themselves in their own little sanctuary, thanks to the creeks and big wall rocks giving touches of nature to this otherwise vast plains.

Evening

Hua Hin Night Market

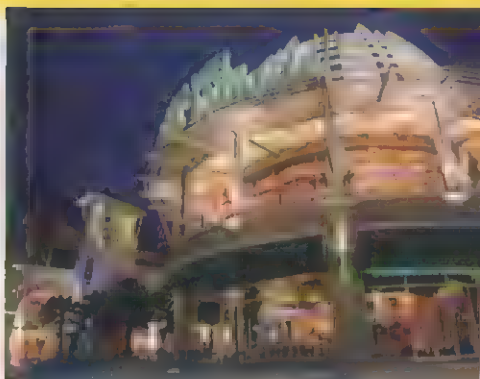

The famed Hua Hin night market is the place for one to soak in the true vide of Hua Hin lifestyle. Locals set up shops offering visitors selections of gifts, crafts as well as local treats and snacks. Along this shopping street also lie a number of restaurant serving up seafood dishes and familiar Thai fare to hungry shoppers.

DAY 3:

Morning

Shopping at Hua Hin Market Village or Sailom Pavilion

These two shopping complexes are monumental spots for shoppers in Hua Hin. Both offer a variety of city comforts such as wine cellar, fashion stores and entertainment while also provide tourists an outlet to scout for unique gifts and souvenirs made by local artists and crafters.

Afternoon

Cha-am Premium Outlet

Hua Hin is fast becoming a mini shopper's paradise. The Premium Outlet shopping complex is a state-of-the-art shopping complex that offers shopaholics great deals on many well-known fashion brands from Nike and Adidas to Mandarin Duck and Von Dutch. There are also cafes and restaurants scattered about for those who's feeling hungry after the bargain hunting. There's also an OTOP store, selling some of Thailand's most famous treats and products for you to take home with.

DAY 1:

Morning

King Mongkut's Memorial Park of Science and Technology

Explore alternative worlds without having to go underwater or up into space at King Mongkut's Memorial Park of Science and Technology. Though the center is dedicated to giving children a learning environment, adults can also enjoy the park's informational and entertaining Aquarium and Planetarium.

Evening

Dinner at Rua Rim Tarn

What could be cooler than enjoying Hua Hin delicacies onboard a boat? Though this "ship" may not be functional, diners can still get a feel of a cruise thanks to its grandiose ship structure that is the dining hall. Authentic sea breeze is served along with their selection of seafood and international dishes.

DAY 2:

Morning

Khao Takiab Beach and Koh Singtoh

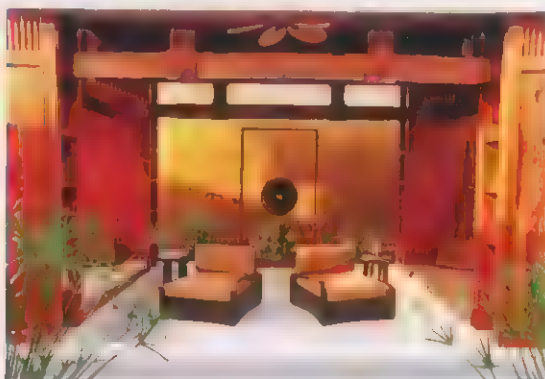

Take a 10-minute ride by speedboat to the two islands just offshore of Takiab Bay. Explore the islands of Kho Tao and Kho Singtoh before you have the freedom to relax on a very small and private beach with sun deck chairs and umbrellas.

Evening

Dinner at Great American Rib

Try the best buffalo wings in Thailand, slow-cooked smoked pork ribs, and Royal Project Filet Mignon in addition to a comprehensive selection of good old fashioned Americana cuisine. Plenty of beers are on tap and the specially crafted margaritas are just the drink to stave off the scorching Thai heat.

DAY 3:

Morning

Spa @ Asara

Surround yourself in pleasure at this haven of tranquility. Enjoy a myriad of exotic scrubs, aromatherapy treatments, and blissful massage treatments along with professional advice from well-trained and knowledgeable therapists.

Hua Hin
Hua HinDAY 1:*Morning*A Visit to Mrigadayavan Palace

Go back in time and experience the life of the elite through this "Summer Palace", a former royal residence of King Rama VI. Built in 1924 under the creative visions of King Rama VI, this old Thai-Victorian style teakwood house is now open to public. Visitors can roam around in this original beachfront villa full of history and spectacular architecture.

LunchAt Chom Talay Restaurant

Hua Hin does have its fair share of seaside restaurant but Chom Talay makes a great stop thanks to its time-tested legacy in fresh seafood preparation. This open dining hall retains its fisherman village charm by combining wooden shacks and straw-roofing with a great selection of fresh catch that are sure to satisfy any seafood fiend.

EveningDinner and Show
at SASI Theater

End your day with a full-course dinner with cultural entertainment on the side at Sasi Theater. Along with a select choice of Thai dinner, visitors can also choose to see one of their renowned traditional performing art shows, from masked theater Khon and Thai dancing to a Thai martial arts show.

DAY 2:

Morning

Baan Sillapin

If there's a place where one can take in both artistic and cultural heritage of Hua Hin, then it is at Baan Sillapin. Doubling as a museum and an art gallery, visitors can browse through the collections of up and coming local artists as well as learn about Thai traditional arts through its collection of artifacts, crafts and sculptures.

Afternoon

Hua Hin Hills Vineyard and Lunch at The SALA

Within Hua Hin Hills also sits The Sala, the vineyard's fine dining spot, which serves up Thai fusion dishes, designed specifically to match their selections of wine. A visit to ■ vineyard would not be complete without ■ first-hand experience of the harvest, which starts from February to March, when Siam Winery's specialist vintners pick the best of Shiraz, Colombard, and Muscat.

DAY 3:

Morning

Activities at Hua Hin Safari

Check out the jungle on the back of an ATV, take ■ ride on an Elephant or simply chill out and enjoy the festivities of this interesting safari park. The supremely adventurous can partake in a game of paintball, and put your mental mettle to the ultimate test of survival.

Institutions

MasterCard hopes you have a wonderful, trouble-free visit to Thailand. However, should you encounter problems, such as a lost or stolen MasterCard card, it is comforting to know that we are here to help.

MasterCard Global Service® provides 24-hour assistance with lost and stolen card reporting, emergency card replacement, and emergency cash advance.

Cardholders should call MasterCard Global Service immediately to report a lost or stolen card and to cancel the account. If you need to make purchases or arrange for a cash advance, with your issuer's approval, you can receive a temporary card the next day in the United States and within two business days most everywhere else.

When you are in need of assistance you can easily reach a specially trained MasterCard Global Service Representative who can help you 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, in any language. The MasterCard Global Service toll-free number in Thailand is 001-800-118-870-663.

Numerous banks throughout Thailand are connected to the MasterCard® and Cirrus® global ATM network. MasterCard cardholders will be able to withdraw cash from the following bank ATMs in Thailand:

AEON Thana Sinsap (Thailand)
Bangkok Bank
Bank of Ayudhya
Kasikornbank
Krung Thai Bank
Siam City Bank
Siam Commercial Bank
TMB Bank
United Overseas Bank (Thai)
